

Who We Are and What We Do

OIKODOMEO is an online learning institute that offers non-formal basic education in Bible, Theology, Personal Formation and Ministry for individuals who are unable to attend a theological college or seminary. It engages in interactive applied education through conversations, discussions, balance of theory and practice, and reflective application. It also designs Leadership Empowerment Programs that align to church mission and goal.

Foundations in Bible, Theology, Personal Formation and Ministry

Christian believers are in a loving faith relationship with the Father through Christ enabled by the Spirit. This relationship is nurtured as believers actively partner with God towards maturity in key areas of the Christian life. One, is in a basic understanding and practical application of Scriptures and its theological themes, as well as, personal formation and ministry principles and examples mentioned by biblical writers and practiced by believers from various backgrounds and contexts. Two, is in developing as kingdom-minded ministry leaders who impact society.

Learning Objectives

Gain basic introduction to the Bible by understanding each testament according to literary style and historical context as foundation for applied interpretation and effective communication.

Gain basic introduction to Theology through understanding key themes and their inter-connections as foundation for applied interpretation and effective communication.

Gain basic introduction to Personal Formation and Ministry as foundation for service in church, faith-based organizations and workplace initiatives.
